Annabell

Annabell originates from a bell. The outer glass shade is transparent and shows the lamp details inside, as the chromated tube between the inner and outer shades. The inner shade is also transparent and has a polar white color and frosted finish. The mix of the material colors and surfaces, together with the fabric white cord makes this pendant alive. Mainly this is a down light but because of the transparent shades the lamp is lighting itself and you see also inside in the space between the shades. Its diameter is 450 mm and height 310 mm that makes this lamp to a medium sized pendant.
